board of directors means the body, whatever it is called, exercising the executive authority of the body corporate.

Commonwealth Criminal Code means the Criminal Code set out in the Schedule to the Criminal Code Act 1995 of the Commonwealth.

physical element has the meaning given by the Commonwealth Criminal Code, Division 4.

244A Physical elements

The conduct constituting the physical element of an offence is taken to have been committed by a body corporate if the conduct is committed by:

- (a) the body corporate's board of directors; or
- (b) 1 or more authorised persons; or
- (c) 1 or more persons acting at the direction of or with the express or implied agreement or consent of:
 - (i) an authorised person; or
 - (ii) the body corporate's board of directors.

244B Fault elements other than gross negligence

- (1) If it is necessary to establish a state of mind of a body corporate in relation to the commission of the physical element of an offence, it is sufficient to show:
 - (a) the body corporate's board of directors:
 - (i) intentionally, knowingly or recklessly carried out the relevant conduct; or

- (ii) expressly, tacitly or impliedly authorised or permitted the carrying out of the conduct constituting the physical element of the offence; or
 - (b) an authorised person—
 - (i) intentionally, knowingly or recklessly engaged in the relevant conduct; or
 - (ii) expressly, tacitly or impliedly authorised or permitted the carrying out of the conduct constituting the physical element of the offence; or
 - (c) a corporate culture existed within the body corporate that directed, encouraged, tolerated or led to the carrying out of the conduct constituting the physical element of the offence.
- (1A) For subsection (1), having a state of mind in relation to the commission of a physical element of an offence does not include engaging in conduct with gross negligence with respect to the physical element.

Notes

- 1 For how the fault element of gross negligence applies in relation to a body corporate, see section 244BA.
 - 2 See the jurisdictional note in the Appendix.
- (2) Subsection (1)(b) and (c) do not apply if the body corporate proves it took reasonable precautions to prevent the conduct or the authorisation or permission of the conduct.
- (3) Factors relevant to the application of subsection (1)(c) include:

- (a) whether authority or permission to carry out the conduct constituting the physical element of an offence, of the same or a similar character, had previously been given by a corporate officer; and

244BA Gross negligence

- (1) If gross negligence is a fault element in relation to the commission of the physical element of an offence, the fault element may exist on the part of a body corporate, despite no individual authorised person of the body corporate having the fault element, if the body corporate has engaged in conduct with gross negligence when viewed as a whole, determined by aggregating the conduct of more than 1 authorised person.

- (2) For the purposes of subsection (1), gross negligence may be evidenced by the fact that the prohibited conduct was substantially attributable to:

 - (b) failure to provide adequate systems for conveying relevant information to relevant persons in the body corporate.

Note

See the jurisdictional note in the Appendix.

244C Mistake of fact

If mistake of fact is relevant to determining liability for an offence, a body corporate may rely on mistake of fact only if:

- (a) the employee, agent or officer of the body corporate who carried out the conduct was under a mistaken but reasonable belief about facts that, had they existed, would have meant the conduct would not have constituted the offence; and
- (b) the body corporate proves it took reasonable precautions to prevent the conduct.

244D Failure to take reasonable precautions

For sections 244B(2) and 244C, a failure to take reasonable precautions may be evidenced by the fact that the conduct constituting the offence was substantially attributable to:

- (a) inadequate management, control or supervision of the conduct of one or more of

- the body corporate's employees, agents or officers; or
- (b) failure to provide adequate systems for conveying relevant information to relevant persons in the body corporate.

- (5) The person prosecuting the offence or bringing the proceedings may change the responsible agency during the proceedings with the court's leave.
