Regulation	Comment
9.2.37 (3)	The requirement for 2 means of exiting the mine workings in addition to the hoisting shaft and any other normal exit may not necessarily improve the ability of underground workers to exit the mine via an emergency exit in steeply dipping ore bodies that have a limited strike extent. The additional exit may of some practicable use in flat lying, shallow ore bodies, as may be typical of some underground coal seams, but the construction of a second emergency exit should be assessed on a mine by mine basis subsequent to a thorough risk assessment conducted at the request of the mine holder or the mine operator.
